Parent Engagement, Parent & Student Enrichment & Support, Community Assignment

Family Involvement is the most pivotal determinant of success in a child.

C.A.E. knows that family involvement in a child's education is a greater predictor of academic success than whether or not that family is affluent or poor. Through C.A.E.'s Mentors Coalition (C.A.E. MC's), C.A.E. continues to develop a collaborative climate between C.A.E., and the home – school relationships.

The family involvement (FI) coordinator leads the charge in the development of strong community partnerships through; enhancing communication between families, school and C.A.E. staff; encourage and support school staff to reach out to families for support; and create ways for families, school and C.A.E. staff to meet face-to-face to establish an action plan of success for the student – such as class meetings, combined student and family C.A.E. workshop activities, lunch with the CEO, and “getting-to-know-you” activities.

A framework of capacity building is built into the very fabric of C.A.E. MC's mandate. Staff training and family-centered activities ensures the requisite skills, knowledge, confidence, and belief systems—in other words, the collective capacity—to successfully implement and sustain these important home–school relationships. C.A.E. understands relational, collaborative, and developmental initiatives build capacity at the same time that it directly addresses student success.
